PLANTERS BANK AND TRUST COMPANY of FARMVILLE, VIRGINIA

1857

Born of necessity in a time of uncertainty and distress just two years after the close of the War Between the States, the Planters Bank and Trust Company of Farmville has a record of 98 years in serving the financial needs of Farmville and Prince Edward County. Today it is the largest and oldest business institution still operating under the same name.

Through wars and depressions Planters Bank and Trust Company has stood the severest tests and stands today in a position to serve on ever widening scale.

One of the secrets of success in this long service has been the conservative, though progressive, policies of the boards of directors.

The bank was organized by Howell E. Warren, one of Farmville's pioneer business men, and associates, among whom were W. T. Rice, P. H. Jackson, N. Cobb and other equally outstanding leaders. W. T. Rice, P. H. Jackson, N. Cobb and W. G. Venable. The work of these men has been carried forward through the intervening years by a Board of Directors as composed of J. N. Garner, C. J. Cox, J. W. Dunnington, J. H. Forbes, C. W. Glenn, F. H. Horsbury, Jr., J. A. Hostetter, F. G. Lewis, C. W. Miller, W. H. Ruffin, Jr., and H. Watkins, Jr.

Since 1867 the bank has been directed by eight presidents as follows: H. E. Warren, T. J. Davis, R. S. Puckett, H. A. Stokes, E. S. Shields, C. W. Hart, J. C. Wilson, and W. J. Dorrill, and W. J. Dorrill is chairman of the Board, J. N. Garner vice president, W. E. Agee, cashier, Mrs. Glenna Shepard, assistant cashier, Edward Cook, Miss Inez Smith, tellers, Mrs. Helen Jones, Miss Edna Smith, bookkeepers.

Having served this community almost 100 years, its officers and employees pledge their future efforts in building on even greater community in which to live.

Dear Sir:

Thinking it might be interesting to many of my old, as well as young friends, to have an account of the scenes and incidents through which I passed on my return home, I will now attempt to write you a few lines.

On the morning of the 9th inst. we were aroused at an early hour, and ordered to prepare for inspection. After standing in line for some time, we were given something to eat, which we learned was to be our last issue of rations. We were then marched into an open field and formed in line and ordered to stack arms. We were then informed that we were paroled prisoners of war, and were ordered to remain in Pickett's charge at Gatrywood, until we were exchanged. I was one of the number detailed as a guard, and was on duty during the night. The rain was now coming down in torrents, and we were indeed in a pitiable condition as we stood in this weather, drenched to the skin, and without blankets, as all clothes we were loaded
